Training course

Testing and Assessment

The aim of this training course is to help you design and assess tests and assignments, for example essays and papers.

The training course will be tailored to the University Teaching Qualification (BKO) goals, as well as to the subjects that participants want to focus on. Application in daily education practice is important, therefore frequent use is made of practices and experiences of the participants.

The program consists of two meetings on:

- design of tests and test questions
- giving and receiving feedback on test questions
- validity and reliability of tests
- setting up and using assessment models
- analyzing test results

Much attention will be given to formulating assignments for and assessing of papers, formulating constructive feedback, evaluating group products and multidisciplinary assessment. The third and last meeting of the training course will be tailored to participants' questions on testing and assessment.
